Twelve Adult Day Facilities need modifications to meet standards that include health and safety issues and ADA accessibility requirements. Modifications will more fully meet the needs of clients who are physically and cognitively impaired. These will include recommendations for modifications to lighting, flooring, bathroom, dining, and activity areas. This will benefit clients who are physically and cognitively impaired, allowing them to be more independent, reduce the risk of injuries from falls, and enhance their well-being by decreasing confusion for the clients who are cognitively impaired.

Adult Day Facility Modifications

$250.0 GF/MH

Problem: The 12 Adult Day facilities need modifications to meet standards that include health and safety issues and ADA accessibility requirements.

Solution: Modifications will more fully meet the needs of clients who are physically and cognitively impaired. These will include recommendations for modifications to lighting, flooring, bathroom, dining, and activity areas.

Benefit: The modifications will benefit clients who are physically and cognitively impaired, allowing them to be more independent, reduce the risk of injuries from falls, and enhance their well-being by decreasing confusion for the clients who are cognitively impaired.

What We're Buying: The funding will address the modifications recommended by the ADRD design and environment consultant, Dr. Uriel Cohen, who will be on contract to inspect all of the Adult Day facilities in FY2002.

History: FY2003 will be the first year for the project.

Timeline: The project is expected to take 2 years.

Other details: Allowable modifications will only be those which do not require additional operating costs.
